Discover Loch Leven

Red Squirrels can be right- or left-handed, see if you can spot one eating a nut at the feeders.

Wetland Trail

Distance: 800m (½ mile), Time: 30-minute walk
Gradient: up to 18%. Steps: 0

There's lots of fun stop-off points on this low-level route. Discover underwater creatures at the two pond dipping areas and there are three hides to bring you close to the wildlife. There can be thousands of Pink-footed Geese in autumn!

What is the trail like?

A mainly flat, wide all-purpose path, with a short, slightly steep section to the first hide. There's a swing gate near the end of the trail. Some sections stay wet after heavy rain.

What will you discover living in the pond?

Woodland Trail

Distance: 1.6km (1 mile), Time: 45-minute walk
Gradient: up to 25%, Steps: 472

Head off on this trail to reach the natural play area. You can then continue up the steep scenic trail, or loop back around past the picnic area on the Sleeping Giant Path.

What is the trail like?

This narrow, earth path has long steep sections with many steps.

The surface can be loose in places and muddy after heavy rain. It may become overgrown in spring and summer.

Good to know

The natural play area has steps within it and loose surface material.

Leafy Loop

Distance: 450m (¼ mile), Time: 15-minute walk
Gradient: up to 18%. Steps: 0

Explore the young woodland and listen out for the birds singing and the insects buzzing. Take a break on our sky bench, half-way round the trail, where you can lie back, gaze at the clouds and see what shapes you can spot in them. Then see if you can catch a glimpse of a Red Squirrel or a butterfly fluttering in the open glades.

What is the trail like?

Join from the picnic area entrance for pushchair and wheelchair access. The trail has a one-metre wide, hard surface with a short, gentle slope. There is a bench halfway round.

Play games among the trees

Loch Leven Heritage Trail

Distance: 21km (13 miles)
Time: 6½-hour walk

This long, circular trail goes beyond the extent of the RSPB nature reserve and goes all the way around Loch Leven. It takes you past some of the most attractive parts of the loch, where ducks, geese and swans enjoy the water.

What is the trail like?

This is a wide, all-purpose path. It is mostly flat with some moderate slopes. It includes accessible bridges.

Sleeping Giant Path

Distance: 7km (4½ miles)
Time: 3-hour walk
Gradient: up to 23%

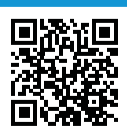

The start of this trail takes you past the picnic area and the natural play area. You can continue up the hilly trail through the woodland on Vane Hill or loop back round to the visitor hub by joining on to the Woodland Trail.

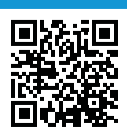

What is the trail like?

A wide, hardcore path with long, steep sections. Some areas are uneven with loose surfaces and there are some rough patches. Parts of this path are challenging.
